YEAR 42 NO. 34 ISSN NO. 2619-8533 BIDA Run highlights 'whole-of-society approach' in curbing illegal drugs in Imus

IMUS CITY Cavite (PIA) — The Department of the Interior and Local Government (DILG) underscored the crucial role that societal and spiritual leaders play in the government's efforts to combat the dangers of illegal drugs, particularly among the youth, under the Buhay Ingatan, Droga'y Ayawan (BIDA) anti-illegal drugs campaign.

During the BIDA Fun Run held here on Jan.

20, Interior Secretary Benhur Abalos emphasized the proactive collaboration between the DILG and the Dangerous Drugs Board (DDB) in organizing seminars for Parent-Teachers Associations (PTA). These seminars aim to equip parents with the knowledge to recognize signs of drug abuse and provide effective strategies for addressing such concerns.

"We are partnering with the Dangerous Drugs Board, and we would like to conduct seminars with the PTA so parents would know how to identify red flags and how to approach the problem," Abalos said.

In partnership with the National Police Commission (NAPOLCOM), Abalos highlighted the DILG's active engagement with religious groups to connect with grassroots communities.

He said the joint effort seeks to identify areas where the illegal drug trade Turn to page 7

Amadeo coffee has been a staple at the Filipino breakfast table for generations.

The town of Amadeo in Cavite has been a player in the local coffee industry since the 1880s.

This sleepy town just a few miles from Taal volcano boasts of sloping terrain, rich volcanic soil, and cool weather that is perfect for growing coffee beans.

"We can plant coffee in our backyards, as long as there is enough space to plant. We use them to intercrop with banana, and other types of vegetables," shared Municipal Agriculturist, Celsa Honrada.

CAVITE NGAYON JAN. 29-FEB. 4, 2024 PhilHealth makes healthcare more accessible to Central Luzon residents

President Ferdinand R. Marcos Jr. highlighted during the inspection of the Clark Multi- Specialty Medical Center that quality healthcare is not a privilege, but a right that every Filipino should readily access.

In line with this, the Philippine Health Insurance Corporation (PhilHealth) has implemented various initiatives to ensure the health and well-being of every Filipino.

Minimizing the burden of disease

PhilHealth Central Luzon Acting Vice President Henry Almanon said their end goal is to reduce out-of-pocket expense of patients, particularly indigents, in terms of seeking health consultations and hospital confinements.

"That is why in the last quarter of 2023, we launched our biggest benefits by expanding our packages," he disclosed.

Among these, the state firm increased coverage of dialysis sessions from 90 days to 156 days, or equivalent to almost six months. This means that for a renal disease patient needing dialysis twice a week, PhilHealth can cover his or her session until the 4th quarter of the year

Another improvement is the expanded case rates or payments for hospital confinement of patients for ischemic stroke from P28,000 to P76,000; hemorrhagic stroke from P38,000 to P80,000; and high-risk pneumonia from P32,000 to P90,100.

Despite the increase in case rates, Almanon clarified that only basic and essential health services for the management of disease are expanded, and amenities in private hospitals that are not essential such as hotel type confinement will not be covered.

From curative to preventive care

PhilHealth has shifted its focus on the confinement or in-patient benefit, also known as the curative care, to preventive care for cost-efficiency. As Almanon puts it, the expansion of the primary care services is the heart of all of their programs.

Known as the Konsulta Package, created pursuant to Republic Act 11223 otherwise known as the Universal Healthcare (UHC) Law, PhilHealth is now pushing for every Filipino to be registered in at least one primary care service because prevention is always better than cure

"We incur great expenses for confinement. Many diseases are preventable and if we have primary care providers for Ayon mismo kay dating Department of Budget and Management Secretary Butch Abad, kahit na lumalago ang ekonomiya ng bansa at patuloy sa pag arangkada, ang job creation na siyang pangunahing indicator ng tunay at may sustansyang pagunlad ng ekonomiya, ay nananatili sa kinalalagyan nito at hindi umuusad o sumasabay sa paglaki ng ekonomiya. Lumalago ang ekonomiya, pero ang trabaho, wala. Milyon-milyon ang Pinoy na walang trabaho sa Pinas, kaya napipilitang mangibang bansa. Hindi nakikinabang, hindi nakakaabot, hindi nadarama at hindi nalalasap ng milyon-milyong mahihirap na Pilipino ang pagyabog ng ekonomiya. Maunlad na ekonomiya. Mahihrap na lalong naghihirap. For generations, Amadeo coffee has not only perked up lazy mornings but, more importantly, helped families send their children to schools and realize their dreams.

Honrada said: "Our farmers were able to send their children to school thanks to coffee. Many of our residents here are professionals with different degrees and specialties thanks to their families who were coffee farmers. We can say that Amadeo was able to grow and develop thanks to coffee."

However, coffee production in the town met a scalding fate when Taal volcano erupted in 2020 immediately followed by the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic.

The Department of Agriculture (DA) reported that the volcanic eruption resulted in P577.59 million in agricultural damage in the region, listing younger. coffee as one of the most affected commodities.

The DA and its local the affected farmers, effectively salvaging an industry that almost got buried among the ashes.

"We assisted the local farmers during the pandemic and when the Taal volcano erupted in 2020. Along with the national government, the municipality provided agricultural intervention to the farmers, such as fertilizers and coffee seedlings to replace the ones killed by the ashfall "Honrada said

To reinvigorate the resilient coffee production industry, Amadeo formulated a long-term plan that banked on encouraging the youth's interest in agriculture.

The Department of Education (DepEd) has been a supportive partner in the local government's drive to promote agriculture among the youth by incorporating related skills into their Technology and Livelihood Education (TLE) classes for Grade 12 students and

"Our schools have been teaching elementary students how to handle soil which counterparts were quick to assist can later on help them develop an interest in agriculture. Of course, children nowadays are more into computers, but through the Gulayan sa Paaralan, we are encouraging our kids to become interested in agriculture."

The municipality of Amadeo culminated its efforts in revitalizing public interest in agriculture and coffee production through the launch of the very first Mayabong Agri Trade Fair last January 15 to coincide with the town's founding anni-

A showcase of local products that exhibited the ingenuity and abundance of Amadeo through their impressive handicrafts and fresh produce, the Mayabong Agri Trade Fair highlighted the importance of agriculture and the coffee industry in their identity and growth as a town.

With its initial success and overwhelming support, the following years will see the Mayabong Agri Trade Fair growing bigger as a testament to the farmers' hard work that can be tasted from every cup of Amadeo coffee. (PB/PIA-4A)

MANILA - About 12 million pieces of marine litter were found along the coastline of Manila Bay, of which 90 percent or 11 million were plastic.

In a press conference on Thursday, toxic-free and zero-waste watchdog group Ecowaste Coalition reported that a new study made in partnership with the Korean International Cooperation Agency (KOICA), De LaSalle University-Dasmarinas, and the Department of Environment and Natural Resources shows that most plastic litters collected along Manila Bay were hard film and other types of plastics, but the majority are single-use plastics (SUPs).

"We are alarmed that marine litter, mostly from single-use plastics, are stuck in the coastal areas of Manila Bay. Studies show that single-use plastics pose a grave danger to vulnerable communities and are an escalating crisis for the environment, health, and climate. The study shows that we have a long way to go to eliminate the ubiquitous problem of single-use plastics and marine litter as a whole," Von Vladimir Defuntorum of Ecowaste Coalition said.

During the briefing, Ecowaste Coalition presented the study "Marine Litter Monitoring Survey in Manila Bay: Year 1 (2023)" report, which was a component of the Enhancement of Marine Litter Management in Manila Bay, Philippines (2021-2025) project.

Ten coastal areas in the National Capital Region, Region 3, and Region 4A were covered by the study that aims to classify marine litter, as well as compare marine litter during dry and wet months, and identify top items of marine litter based on actual counts

Ecowaste Coalition said that the study confirms that

"sachet economy" is the norm in the country as most Filipinos are highly dependent on single-use plastics such as single-use utensils, sachets, and wrappers.

Various studies have already shown that SUPs are destructive not only to the environment but to human health as

This is because as plastics break down and become microplastics and nanoplastics, they find their way into the food people eat leading to a range of toxicological effects, including reproductive abnormalities, oxidative stress, and gastrointestinal dysfunction

Manila Bay is bordered by the coastal cities of the NCR which include Manila, Pasay, Paranaque, Las Piñas, and Navotas, and the coastal provinces of Bataan, Pampanga, Bulacan in Region 3, and Cavite in Region 4A.

It is also intersected by the seven major rivers, which are the major sources of marine pollution in the bay.

Meanwhile, Yuna Lee, Manager of International Cooperation Team, Our Sea of East Asia Network, said the new study could serve as baseline data for concerned sectors.

"With this baseline study, we are optimistic that it will contribute to the deepening of our understanding of the marine litter problem. We hope that this study will lead to the execution of an impactful cost-effective policies and management practices towards prevention and reduction of marine pollution in Manila Bay by urging a multi-sectoral initiative to strengthen the environmental protection system in the Bay," she said. MANILA – As the Philippines continues to grapple with the complexities of the 21st century. the United Nations (UN) has steadfastly remained its most trusted ally.

Here's a look at some of the milestones that have defined and shaped this solid partnership, highlighting the country's engagement with the UN in its thrust to uphold its commitment to international cooperation while pushing forward its sustainable development, peacebuilding, and humanitarian initiatives.

UN supporter

In June 1945, the Philippines made a mark when it became one of the 51 UN founding members and one of only four Asian nations to sign the UN Charter.

During its formative years, our country captured global attention when the Philippine ambassador to the UN, Carlos Romulo, became the first Asian president during the fourth UN General Assembly from 1949 to 1950.

This international recognition was again replicated in the 1960s, when then Ambassador Salvador Lopez was named Chairman of the UN's Commission on Human Rights. now the UN Council on Human Rights, a position that was previously helmed by Eleanor Roosevelt.

Since the 1960s. the Philippines has carved its name as one of the staunch supporters of UN peacekeeping operations and special political missions, actively deploying Filipino peacekeepers since 1963

In 1964, the Philippines became one of the co-founders of the G-77 coalition, mandated to promote collective economic interests among members of the UN.

In several decades, the Philippines has consistently made its presence felt in the international arena, with Filipinos such as Carlos Romulo, Jacinto Castel Borial, Lauro Baia Jr., Delia Domingo-Albert, and Bayani Mercado being hailed as presidents of the UN Security Council, in charge of maintaining international peace and secu-

Data also shows that the UN is staffed by Filipinos, carrying the Philippine flag behind their backs as they work in various capacities in the headquarters of the world's biggest international diplomatic organization. UN's support

As the country gradually recovered from the ravages of World War II in the latter part of the 1940s, the UN became a trusted partner, providing financial and other forms of assistance, which paved the way for development programs and initiatives. Over the years, the UN has become an enabling partner of the government.

Through its various globally-established subsidiaries, specialized agencies, and programs, it has steadily supported the country's development agenda, working closely with local authorities to address pressing issues such as human rights, healthcare, poverty, and climate change that beset the countrv.

In the field of human rights, the country's active participation in the Fourth World Conference on Women in 1995 was a milestone for women as it gave birth to the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action (BPfA), a landmark document that advances women's rights and gender equality worldwide.

For the Philippines, the BPfA became a guiding principle in establishing an agenda for women's empowerment as it called for mainstreaming gender into national plans and policies.

Likewise, the UN's support for the Philippines in its thrust to help the government achieve the national development goals and the 2030 Agenda, including the 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) outlined in 2015, is a strong expression of its commitment to uplift the human condition in the country

As the country navigates a post-pandemic world, the Philippines hopes to further strengthen its partnership with the UN, pledging its commitment to uphold peace and security, development, and humanitarian action in the global arena as it addresses its own crises with the help of its most trusted ally. Describing the drug problem as being passed down through generations, Abalos emphasized the importance of acknowledging its existence.

"We have many challenges; we inherited these problems. But it doesn't mean we will give up. What's important is that we acknowledge that there is a problem, [so] let's not turn a blind eve to the issues." Abalos added that seven out of every 10 persons deprived of liberty face drug-related charges.

PBBM approves three-month extension of PUV consolidation

President Ferdinand Marcos Jr. has approved the extension for franchise consolidation under the Public Utility Vehicle Modernization Program (PUVMP), providing an opportunity to those who want to consolidate, according to the Presidential Communications Office (PCO).

"President Ferdinand Marcos Jr. has approved Transport Secretary Jaime J. Bautista's recommendation, granting an additional three months until April 30, 2024 for the consolidation of public utility vehicles," *the PCO said in a statement on Wednesday.*

"This extension is to give an opportunity to those who expressed intention to consolidate but did not make the previous cutoff."

The Land Transportation and Franchising Regulatory Board (LTFRB) said public utility vehicles totalling 190,000 units, comprising of UV Express, PUJs, mini-buses and buses,
