SENATE CORNER

Dela Rosa asks Facebook for fair treatment for its users, sounds alarm on National Security

Senator Ronald 'Bato' Dela Rosa is not pushing to ban social networking site Facebook in the country as he stressed the need for the social media giant to explain the reasons for the recent take down of some pro-government accounts and pages, a definite concern in terms of national security.

In two recent radio interviews, Dela Rosa explained that he is not advocating for the closure of the social media giant in the Philippines as he recognized the importance of Facebook to the lives of at least 77 million Filipinos who rely on it as a source of information and income, and as a means of communications with their loved ones.

Dela Rosa called on Facebook to exercise fairness for all its users at all times instead of choosing to listen only to the lobbyists of the anti-government groups.

"Bakit puro pro-government puro anti-communist, anti-terrorism groups yung kanilang pinagte-take down? How about yung nakikita ng ating mga kababayan...mga pro-communist, mga anti-government? Are you sure hindi ito mga fake accounts, bakit hindi ito tine-take down?" Dela Rosa said.

"Ako naman, fair and square lang. Kung pabayaang nila yan, okay lang kasi kung halimbawa nag express ng dissent against government yang mga NPA na yan, yung mga terorista na yan, okay lang basta fair tayo. Kung i-allow niyo sila na gumamit ng Facebook, i-allow niyo rin yung pro-government advocacy groups na gumamit ng Facebook. Huwag nyo silang i-take down. Magkabilang panig, pabayaang nila. Dapat hindi one-sided yung kanilang implementation sa batas nila," Dela Rosa stressed.

"As I have said, ayaw kong mawala ang Facebook dahil ako mismo Facebook user ako, pero ang sa atin lang patas lang sana," Dela Rosa further noted.

Albeit its crucial role in terms of communication, Dela Rosa said that Facebook must always adhere to the laws of the land.

"Hindi ako mag-advocate na ipasara ang Facebook. Facebook has been very crucial dito sa ating communication, 77 million Filipinos rely on Facebook right now sa kanilang communication with their loved ones at doon din sila kumuha ng news. Hindi na sila nakikinig sa mainstream media, hindi na nagbabasa ng newspaper, nago-open na lang ng Facebook accounts nila kaya very crucial yan, so hindi ko ina-advocate na ipasara natin," Dela Rosa said on Saturday.

Dela Rosa, a former Chief of the Philippine National Police, explained that he is seeking an inquiry for Facebook to explain the reasons behind the recent censorship to ensure that the Filipinos' right to freedom of speech and of expression will not be curtailed as well as to tackle the implication of the said censorship to the national security in the country.

"Malaking implication yan sa national security, yung ginawa nilang yan. Yung pag take down sa mga pro-government, anti-communism, anti-terrorist, anti-NPA na mga advocacy groups...ibig mo sabihin hindi na magiging patas ang laban, alam natin ang laban ngayon nasa social media... Pag namayagpag sila (leftist groups)... baka mamaya sabihin ng mga tao sila talaga ang totoong gobyerno ng ating bansa." Dela Rosa added this morning, October 5.

The senator emphasized the importance of clarifying the grounds for the censorship action of Facebook, particularly what the social media giant considers as 'coordinated inauthentic behavior'.

"Kaya nga tayo magpapatawag ng Senate hearing. Hopefully ma-determine ng komite, ma-inform nila yung komite kung ano ang ibig sabihin nila sa 'coordinated inauthentic behavior.' Sabi nila tinaggal yan dahil fake accounts or spreading fake news, well napakalaking kabaliktaran sa ginawa nila dito sa account ng "Hands Off Our Children" na isang advocacy group. Hindi naman ito fake, totoong mga parents ito na gustong protektahan ang kanilang mga anak laban sa pagre-recruit ng CPP-NPA," Dela Rosa said.

Dela Rosa has recently filed Senate Resolution No. 531 urging the Senate to look into Facebook's recent censorship on some pro-government and anti-communism accounts and pages. The proposed Senate inquiry, in aid of legislation, was referred to the Committee on Justice and Human Rights and the Committee on Public Information and Mass Media.

DILG calls for a uniform price of COVID-19 RT PCR swab test

The Department of the Interior and Local Government (DILG) is pushing for a standard price for the Reverse Transcription Polymerase Chain Reaction (RT-PCR) or swab test for COVID-19.

DILG Secretary Eduardo M. Año said the least the health services industry could do is to make the RT-PCR test affordable by lowering and standardizing its price so more people can avail for themselves of the swab test.

"Mas marami ang mabibigyan ng pagkakataong magpa-swab test kung pare-pareho ang presyo nito sa mga pribado at gobyernong ospital (Everyone should be given the chance to have a swab test by standardizing its price both in private and government hospitals)," Año said.

"Iyan ang isang mabisang paraan para mapigil ang pagkalat ng COVID-19 virus (That's one of the best options to prevent the spread of COVID-19 virus)," he added.

The RT-PCR is the gold standard for COVID testing. While there are cheaper rapid tests in the market, Año said these tests are said to be inconclusive.

A popular news

website, in its recent survey of public and private hospitals, reported that the cost of RT-PCR tests ranged from P4,000 to P13,000, a range way above the purchasing power of ordinary Filipinos.

Año said that instead of taking the test, most Filipinos would rather spend their money to buy food and other necessities and follow the minimum health protocols to prevent contamination.

"Sana, pantay rin ang presyo ng swab tests sa mga pampubliko at pribadong hospital," he added.

Año supported the call of House Deputy Speaker 1Pacman party-list Rep. Mikee Romero for the Department of Health to immediately address public complaints regarding the different prices of swab tests.

The Secretary also endorsed Romero's proposal for hospitals to provide free regular swab tests to their health workers who cannot afford them.

Romero said the cost hospitals incur in doing the RT-PCR screening should not be much different.

"I am assuming that they are doing the same process and using the same equipment, and the personnel involved have the same training and experience," the congressman said.

He noted that the Philippine National Red Cross charges the lowest at P3,500 per swab.

On the other hand, nine private and government hospitals in Metro Manila charge individuals RT-PCR test fees ranging from P3,500 to P8,150, he said.

In August, the Department of Trade and Industry and the Department of Labor through Joint Memorandum Circular 20-04 urged employers of private companies to get their workers tested and shoulder the cost of the swab test.

Año also supported Romero's call for hospitals to provide free regular swab tests to their health workers who cannot afford them.

"Our health workers are among our frontliners who are making a big sacrifice by caring for COVID patients and preventing people from contracting the virus," the Secretary said.

"We should make sure that the number of our health workers would increase, not diminish by regularly subjecting them to swab tests," he added.

scams in the last six months, attributing it to the growth of online activity due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

"Napakarami ngayong nabibiktima ng mga online selling scams. Napaka-seryoso nito dahil involved dito ang identity theft kung saan ninanakaw ng mga bogus seller ang identity ng ibang tao para makipag-transact, tapos maglalaho na lang at iba ang mapagbibintangan," Revilla explained.

"Nandiyan din yung pagdating sa'yo ng binili mo, iba kaysa sa binili mo, at yung iba nga, bato ang laman ng kahon, katulad na lang nitong si Arthur Baylon," he added.

Baylon is a third-year college student who saved up by catching fish with his father and selling their catch to buy a laptop he needs for school. When he bought a laptop online, what he received instead were three rocks in a box.

"Mabuti at isinoli ng seller ang pera niya matapos siyang magsampa ng reklamo sa pulis," shared Revilla. "Nakausap ko itong bata, at umaasa ako na matuntun ng pulisya ang gumawa ng kalokohan. He is just one of the many na binibiktima ngayon ng mga kawatan. The police should step-up and we in the Senate will be behind them," he ended.

"Itong 32 provinces muna na ito, karamihan dito mababa ang Covid-19 cases at walang Metro Manila dito, wala 'yung mga high risk (areas). 'Yung iba, for next year na pag na-control na talaga natin itong Covid-19. Ayaw natin madaliin because of the Covid-19 so gumawa tayo ng sistema para makapagsimula na ng proseso. (These 32 provinces have a low number of Covid-19 cases. We don't have Metro Manila, we don't have other high-risk areas. The other areas are set for next year once we have controlled the Covid-19 situation. We don't want to rush, we just came up with a system where we can start the process)." Interior Undersecretary and spokesperson Jonathan Malaya told the Philippine News Agency (PNA) in a phone interview.

He noted that these provinces have already coordinated with the Philippine Statistics Authority as well as with the DILG regional offices.

Interior Secretary Eduardo Año, meanwhile, said appropriate measures have been established to prevent possible Covid-19 transmission during the activity, noting that most of these provinces are under modified general community quarantine (MGCQ) already.

"We will deploy additional PNP (Philippine National Police) and barangay officials and volunteers to enforce the safeguards and minimum health standards," Año said in a message sent to PNA.

Malaya, meanwhile, said the PSA has requested the DILG "for assistance in securing a memorandum of agreement with various local government agencies".

Malaya noted the MOA will ensure that the LGUs will provide the PSA with the necessary assistance with regards to "pre-registration, the manpower requirement, in terms of transportation, in terms of crowd control as well as other logistical support".

"Instead of direct registration, our approach is pre-registration. Ang ibig sabihin ng pre-registration magbabahay-bahay si PSA, 'yung mga enumerators nila tapos kukunin 'yung basic data tungkol dun sa mga tao yung kasarian, yung pangalan. (This means PSA would go door-to-door for this. Their enumerators would collect basic data such as gender and names). There would be a schedule for the collection of other data which would be done at the municipal hall or government office identified by the local government units. There will be no queues," he said.

He said with this scheme, the number of people who would have their basic data collected at a given time would be limited to ensure physical distancing.

Malaya emphasized that the national ID system aims to harmonize, integrate and interconnect the countless and redundant government IDs with the creation of a single national identification system.

The ID will contain the Philippine identification system (PhilSys) number, full name, facial image, sex, date of birth, blood type, and address of the concerned individual.

In April, President Rodrigo Duterte directed the National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA) to hasten the implementation of PhilSys.

The PSA, an attached agency of NEDA, which is the implementing agency of the national ID system under Republic Act 11055 or the Philippine Identification System Act, expects to begin mass registration in October, with the aim of registering an estimated five million low-income Filipinos by the end of the year./source:PNA
