SENATE CORNER

Angara-Commuting is definitely a challenge. Let's come up with solutions now

"Transport crisis or not, the fact that thousands of commuters are having an extremely difficult time getting to their destinations should already prompt immediate action from the entire government.

While some people are preoccupied with arguing on semantics, the students and employees are dealing with their daily struggle with how to get to work and school.

We must focus on finding solutions immediately. No one who commutes finds any amusement in memes or salines about statements being made by this or that person. What they want is to know that something is being done and they are not being ignored.

Traffic along EDSA and the other major thoroughfares of Metro Manila is not going to ease anytime soon. To make things worse, the mass transit systems are breaking down, leaving commuters with few options on how to get from point A to point B.

While we are waiting for the big-ticket infrastructure projects such as the skyway extension, MRT and LRT line expansions and rehabilitation of the Philippine National Railways, there is one alternative that to me is easier and faster to implement, and that is the Pasig River ferry system.

I have mentioned this before after seeing the potential of the Pasig River ferry as a way to ease traffic in the metropolis. A feasibility study has already been conducted for this project and from what we have been told, we can have a fully operational ferry transport system in just one year.

Unlike the road infrastructure, which entails massive disruptions to traffic and other issues such as road right of way, the Pasig River ferry project simply involves constructing or refurbishing the stations and purchasing the vessels.

Of course some dredging has to be done to ensure the ferries will be able to traverse the entire stretch of the Pasig River without issue, but I'm confident the Department of Public Works and Highways has the capability to do this.

There are presently 14 ferry stations situated along the Pasig River, out of which only 11 are operational. The current line can transport passengers from Pasig-Mandaluyong-Makati-Manila.

The current fleet consists of nine passenger boats but only two are running daily.

Improving ridership is definitely a challenge, but one that can easily be addressed by ensuring that the ferry system will be able to operate reliably and consistently. Passengers need to know that the ferry will arrive on time and that they will get to their destinations on schedule.

Eventually, we have to ensure passenger access to the ferry stations. This means the riders should be able to get to and from the other modes of transport such as the MRT and LRT stations and bus stops.

We need to get this done right away if we want to ease traffic congestion in Metro Manila. Many of the major infrastructure projects will not be completed until after the Duterte administration. Let's come up with ways to provide relief to our commuters at an earlier time."

Official Media Statement

On the recent pronouncements of Atty. Harry Roque on the issue of WellMed Whistleblowers

In view of the recent pronouncements of Atty. Harry Roque on the issue of WellMed whistleblowers, the Philippine Health Insurance Corporation (PhilHealth) is continuously cooperating with the National Bureau of Investigation (NBI) and the Presidential Anti-Crime Commission (PACC) to ferret out the truth on the matter. The said cooperation have resulted to the filing of 32 cases against its senior officers and employees based on the voluminous documents provided them as directed by Congress.

PhilHealth constantly provides the NBI and PACC with relevant information and documents that they require in recognition of their authority and mandate to conduct investigations over allegations of corruption and fraud. Parallel to these, PhilHealth continues its internal investigation and inquiry into its various processes to further improve or correct these processes if need be, with the end in view of making its services more efficient and responsive to its members and stakeholders.

Whenever warranted, it defers its findings especially of criminal liabilities only to the NBI being the competent agency with whom it has an existing cooperation under a Memorandum of Agreement.

NCCA holds conference on Museums and Galleries month

Dasmariñas City, Cavite, Oct. 15 (PIA) – In celebration of the Museums and Galleries Month this October, the National Commission for Culture and the Arts (NCCA) has scheduled three conferences that will take place across the three major island groups of the country after a Kick-Off Ceremony hosted by the Iloilo Museum of Contemporary Arts last October 1, 2019.

The first conference was held recently at the Museo De La Salle here, which gathered several members of the local media in the province.

"These activities are conducted in recognition of the need to arouse in the national consciousness a strong sense of pride in our rich culture expressed in all media of art and culture," according to the letter of invitation distributed by the NCCA.

During the press conference, NCCA-National Committee on Art Galleries Head, Mr. John Delan Robillos suggested that the schools can prepare a program for their students to visit museums and galleries.

"We encourage curated exhibitions to not only be limited to the museums alone but it must be our obligation whether as commercial or institutional galleries to create a program for curated exhibitions for everyone to enjoy," Robillos said.

On the other hand, Museo De La Salle Director Ms. Cecille T. Gelicame stressed that the revival of the Museums and Galleries Month is a good initiative and should be sustained for it to progress. She also appealed to the members of the media for support to make this advocacy successful.

In time with the Museums and Galleries Month, Museo De La Salle formally opened the exhibit, ANLUWAGE: Constructing Forms, Mastering Functions which runs until December 14, 2019. ANLUWAGE, showcases selected notable wooden furniture pieces from the museum's collection and an assortment of original wooden house parts such as carved balusters and callados that brings us to the era when ancestral houses were built thru the craftsmanship of Filipino artisans combined with unique architectural designs.

The exhibit also forms part of the Project Bayani: Curating South Luzon, a simultaneous exhibition among the museums of members of the Southern Luzon Association of Museums (SLAM). (Ruel Francisco, PIA-Cavite)

CALABARZON NEWS PSA 4A cites importance of gender-based statistics on NSM 2019

CALAMBA CITY, Laguna (PIA) – The Philippine Statistics Authority Region 4A (PSA 4A) promotes importance of gender-based statistics through conducting Women and Men (WAM) Statistics Dissemination Forum during the 30th National Statistics Month (NSM) opening ceremony for Calabarzon.

With the theme, "Data Innovation: Key to a Better Nation," the NSM 2019 Opening Ceremony enjoined national government agencies and provincial and local government units at Hotel Marciano, Brgy. Real, Calamba City last October 7.

PSA 4A Statistical Specialist Silver Quiatchon who served as Master of Ceremony explained, "Relevant sex-disaggregated information can serve as guide in advocacy work geared towards women's welfare and advancement in the various sectors of society."

He also emphasized that information on women related to areas of violence, migration, peace and human rights which have not been given focus in various statistical publications are now being made available through the WAM Statistics.

Senior Statistical Specialist Charity O. Bautista presented the WAM Statistics result of Calabarzon in relation to Population, Labor and Employment, Agriculture, Education, Vital Health and Family Planning, Violence Against Women, Public Life, Overseas Filipinos, Public Order, Safety and Justice, Social Welfare, and Sustainable Development Goals (SDG).

While, National Economic and Development Authority Region 4A (NEDA 4A) Regional Director Luis Banua stressed the importance of the WAM statistics in relation to the fifth SDG, which is to "Achieve gender equality and empower all women and girls."

He even shared about the initiatives of the Calabarzon Regional Development Council (RDC) on promoting Gender and Development (GAD) including recognizing Best Regional GAD Implementers, developing and conducting GAD trainings, strengthening partnerships and linkages among stakeholders, and continuous advocacy on the use of sex-disaggregated data on planning and policy.

PSA 4A Statistical Operations and Coordination Division Chief Benigno F. Perido stressed that the goal of the annual celebration is to promote the importance and value of Statistics in governance, policy formulation, planning, decision-making and even Research and Development.

Also, he pointed out that without data and good quality statistics, policy-makers and development planners would be like walking in the dark.

"Statistics will show us whether our policies and programs are technically working and what still needs to be done to achieve sectoral goals under Ambisyon 2040 as well as the SDG 2030," he explained.

As to the WAM Statistics in Calabarzon, the Chief promised to continue to update its content every year.

"More innovation will be done especially after our Census of Population and Housing in 2020 next year which will give more granular sex-specific demographic statistics so that all gender-issues shall be addressed properly." (Joy Gabri-do/PIA4A)

The organization also reported that a tenth of Filipino adolescents is overweight.

UNICEF Philippines representative Oyun Dendevnorov said apart from being stunted and overweight, Filipino children and adolescents have increased vulnerability to diseases due to poor health-seeking behavior, incomplete immunization, poor hygiene and care practices, and inadequate diet.

"The undernutrition facts in the Philippines are disturbing. One in three 12 to 23-month-old children suffers from anemia while one in three children is irreversibly stunted by the age of two. On the other hand, one in 10 adolescents is obese from wrong eating habits," Dendevnorov added.

UNICEF nutrition specialist Dr. Rene Galera, meanwhile, reported that one in two children suffers from hidden hunger due to deficiencies in vitamins and essential nutrients.

This heavy toll is made all the more insidious by the fact that hidden hunger is rarely noticed until it is too late to do anything. And, the numbers of women and children and women affected by various forms of hidden hunger are striking as UNICEF estimates that at least 340 million children are under five suffer from micronutrient deficiencies," Galera added.

Department of Health Disease Prevention and Control Bureau officer-in-charge Dr. Anthony Calibo said undernutrition among children and adolescents could be a challenge because they have easy access to processed and sugary food, especially in schools.

"As children, they don't know what food to ask, but depend on adults and their caregivers to know what food they need to grow healthy and avoid preventable, non-communicable diseases in the future such as diabetes and hypertension," Calibo said.

"Driving food suppliers to do the right thing for children, building healthy food environments, mobilizing supportive systems to scale up nutrition results, and collection and use of quality data and evidence to regularly track progress are a few of the ways by which we can prioritize children's nutrition," he said.

National Nutrition Council executive director Dr. Azucena Dayanghirang said the national government, through the Philippine Plan of Action for Nutrition (PPAN) 2017-2022, is "exerting all its efforts" to address malnutrition among children.

"One of the strategic thrusts of the PPAN 2017-2022 is the focus on the first 1,000 days of life, which refers to the period of pregnancy up to the first two years of the child, wherein key health, nutrition, early education, and related services should be delivered to ensure optimum physical and mental development of a child," Dayanghirang said.
